Remember to do the 'emotion evoking questions' sheet before picking out your patterned paper. It's tempting to just dive in and start going through your supplies. I know if you're a scrapbook-buying-supply-hoarding gal like me, then you are eager to use up some of your stash. However the journaling of your relationship moments will make this mini-album one of your favorites! After answering these questions, you will be feeling some emotions and this will guide you to the type of paper and overall feel you want for your mini-album. So if you must, start by looking through your DVD collection. Find a case you can use and enjoy the journey, as you venture through your mind and learn more about your relationship.
